

Lazard Dana LLP Implements iLumen’s Client Financial Monitoring and Benchmarking Service

Technology Platform Enables CPAs to Advise Clients Throughout the Year

Atlanta, GA, October 27, 2005 –Lazard Dana LLP, a leading CPA firm in Savannah, Georgia, and iLumen, Inc. jointly announced today that Lazard Dana is implementing iLumen’s client financial monitoring and benchmarking service. The service will provide additional value to all business clients and will enable specific business development opportunities in Lazard Dana’s niche markets of post-secondary schools and architectural, engineering and contracting firms.

“Knowing that our clients value a close relationship with their CPAs, we were looking for a solution that would facilitate communication with our clients throughout the year,” said John Matthews, Managing Partner at Lazard Dana. “iLumen’s services provide us with the ability to electronically receive and analyze interim financial data that, for the first time, allows our CPAs to proactively address clients’ needs based on a real-time view of their changing financial situations.”

“Lazard Dana’s industry leadership in serving niche markets, specifically their expertise with post-secondary schools, is a natural fit for iLumen’s expanding financial information network,” said Robert H. Woosley, Co-founder and Chief Executive Officer of iLumen. “By implementing iLumen’s benchmarking service, Lazard Dana CPAs will be able to offer detailed industry benchmarking reports and provide valuable industry insight to their clients.”

“Lazard Dana strives to create value in all our business relationships by building and maintaining long-lasting advisory relationships with our clients in Savannah and nationally,” said Matthews “and the decision to implement iLumen’s services is an extension of that commitment.”
